That Is What Undersheriff Walsh Received

FROM A HEAVY FLAT IRON

In the Hands of an Angry Woman Whos Furniture He Was Trying to Move Into the Street.

Several days ago Lyman Morris be gan suit against Daniel J. G. Eilinger regain possession of the basement at the corner of Island and South Dion streets. Ellinger rented the ent in connection with his store from Morris, and sub-let it to two men, who ostensibly ran a restauent. They have been giving dances milar to the one given in the base-Waterloo street, and for which Mc-Connell was heavily fined in police court. People living in the vicinity filed a kick and it became necessary to oust them. Circuit Court Com-missioner Hughes gave the complain-ant a writ of restitution which was placed in the hands of Under Sheriff Walsh for service. The officer ordered the women out, but they complained hat they had so place to go and asked her gave another dance. That they gave another dance. That clapped the chimax and yesterday afon the sherilf visited the place with the intention of putting them out. While he was arguing with one of the better go out peacefully, the other stepped up and struck him in the back of the head with a flat iron. He saw stars for a moment and nearly fell to He now carries a bunch on his head as large as a goose egg. After recovering Billy got his friell up and began to put the furniture into the street. Then one of the women went to Justice Hydorn's court and told Constable Jackman that a man without authority, and whom she did not know, was creating a disturbance. The conwww who the intruder was he concluded not to interfere. The restaurant appartenances are now piled on the side-

MABEL AND THE WATCH.

Marshal Tobin Wants to Recover a Gold Ticker From Her.

Deputy Sheriff Beaver arrested Mabel nham in a Waterloo street dive yestorday, for the sheriff of Wexford county, on suspicion of having stolen a gold watch. When the Harriet coun-terfeiters were on trial in the United States court here, Marshal Tobin testi-fied as a witness. He "did the town" ore returning to Harriet. While making the rounds, he ran across Mahel and became infatuated. When he went back to the quiet village he took the girl with him. Tobin's better half learned of the old man's scheme, and brought matters to a crisis by firing and brought matters to a crime by firing both out of the house. They walked green fields to this city. Tobin got the gold shake when Madel again planted her feet on familiar Waterloo street ground. He returned to his wife, and was forgiven. Madel claims that Tobin gave her the watch. It happened to belong to Mrs. Tobin.

MEN OF BRAINS. They Declined as Invitation to "Have Something" and the Reasons Therefor,

One of the most common of every-

One of the most common of every-day incidents is to see some person blear-eyed, shabby and uncertain on his legs, weaving his way along the streets almost wholly under the influence of liquor. As a companion piece to this picture, it is equally common to have some one say of the drunken person: "Isn't it too bad he drunken person: "Inst a majority of our hard drinkers and our morphine fiends are persons above ordinary in mental resources and intellectual strength is a fact beyond question, and if you will think the matter over, it seems to me, you can reach no other conclusion than the following. The brain of a person who is ambitious is called upon to work to its best limit and it answers the call. Ambition is a thing once started and breant yesterday against Frank once favored, which is insatiste. It sees and her dog was following until that ergan in turn, calls upon the premises searched, thinking he has canine hidden. sees no limit and so it pushes the orain until that ergan in turn, calls upon the stomach to its last limit. The stomach gets its fuel from without. It is the boiler to the engine and like the steam boiler it will explode if the water gets too low and the fire too hot. The brain gine) working. Excessive ambition, backed by an active, competent brain, crowds its demands upon the stemach until ordinary fuel, (food and drink) do not answer the purpose. Then we begin to put in lard, coal oil, rossn, or in other words, whisky, morphine, chloral, tobacco, beer, and so on. These things eventually burn out the boiler plates, and the climax comes in death. This, it seems to me, is the analysis which leads you equarely in front of the theory that extraordinary ntellectuality is, frequently, the prime cause of intemperance.

At all events, as intemperance is now recognized by the medical profession generally as a habit disease, and as a mojority of the victims of that disease are of superior mental calibre, it seems to me that the way to cure that disease were persons having hopes, ambitions, brains, instead of handling them like imbeciles and not worthy of confidence. This thought was forced home to my mind with double force the to my mind with double force the other day as I met a couple of young men whom I had known for some time as regular and heavy dribkers. We had walked together a considerable distance, passing half a dozen or more saloons on the way. Knowing their convival habits I was somewhat surprised that neither one of them made any move toward entering any of the any move toward entering any of the saloons. Finally, as I was about to leave them and as we were just then in front of front of one of the fashionable uppling places of the city, I observed: "Wont you go in and have something "

To my amazement each man declined my invitation, and to my chagrin they added: "You ought not to ask us when you know that we have stopped drink-I promptly asked their pardon and left them. My embarrassment and surpres was doubled an hour later when I learned by inquiry that both of the young men were "graduates" from the International Gold Cure Company, that they had been cured by Dr. J. E. Albee's prescription and system of treatment, and that the cure had been effected so completely and so free from publicity that no one, not even their most infiniate friends, knew they were being treated. How was it done? By placing the men on their honor as men of brain and intellect, by placing no restriction as to diet, employment or residence while they were under treat-ment. The International Gold Cure ing Dr. J.E. Albee's prescription and sys-tem of treatment, has over 200 perma-nent cures like the above, to its credit and not one failure to record. When House Cleaning

If you desire to have a nice mantel and grate do not forget that the Aldine fire place can be easily placed in position in a house already built, and piped to common chimney at little expense. The results and appearances will be equally as good as though a special expensive chimney was provided. The Aldine fire place will produce heat convalent to that even by duce heat equivalent to that given by ordinary stoves. Unlike the stove it will not take up the best part of the room in which it is placed; on the contrary, when placed under matel as designed, it forms a very handsome piece of furniture for the room in which it is placed, always ready for the cheery open fire. It will keep the floors warm, equalize the temperature, and furnish equalize the temperature, and furnish an agreeableness of heat and the best of sanitary ventilation with economy and cleanliness.
